2022 NASIS ADMINISTRATION METHODOLOGY REPORT

Introduction

This report presents a detailed account of the design and fielding of the 2022 Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey (2022 NASIS). Users of the 2022 NASIS data will find it an important reference source for answers to questions about methodology.

The Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey was conceived as a vehicle both for producing current, topical information about Nebraskans (age 19 and older) and also for monitoring change in quality of life. As in earlier surveys, 2022 NASIS was a joint effort of a variety of University and public agencies. While the final responsibility for the design and fielding of the survey rests with the Bureau of Sociological Research (BOSR), both the costs of the survey and its planning have been shared with the researchers involved, which typically include several state agencies, private non-profit agencies, and University departments. Additional information concerning who funded specific questions in 2022 NASIS can be obtained by contacting BOSR.

Mode Selection

Historically, NASIS was administered as a telephone interview with adults (age 19 and older) in households in Nebraska with a landline telephone. Due to rising costs associated with declining response rates for telephone surveys, the 2009-2010 NASIS was administered as a mail survey to Nebraska households. Each NASIS since, including 2022 NASIS, has been administered as a mail survey as well. BOSR has used the mail mode in other survey projects, where it has been an efficient and cost-effective method of data collection.

Design and Item Selection

Each Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey is designed to meet the data needs of a diverse group of researchers including UNL faculty and state agencies. In order to meet these needs, the instrument involves multiple stages of development. First, a set of “core” questions is developed. The majority of core items is repeated each year and covers basic demographic information, quality-of-life topics, and general sociological indicators. The core items are intended both to maintain continuity with previous years of NASIS and to provide information on issues of current importance and interest.

The next step in the development of the instrument is to incorporate a second set of questions to meet the data needs of the agencies and organizations purchasing space on the current survey. Interested public agencies and faculty members initially submit questions to be included in the survey. Aside from the core questions, all of those submitting questions are “buyers” (i.e., they contribute toward the cost of the survey in proportion to their data needs). As the questions from each buyer, or client, are submitted, they are formatted to fit in a mail survey. NASIS provides a cost-effective vehicle for collecting information about Nebraskans as clients purchase only the space needed to administer their items and are provided the use of the core items as part of their participation in NASIS.

With the growing interests of clients, NASIS had reached its full capacity of an annual omnibus survey. In order to serve as many researchers as needed, keep respondent burden at a reasonable level, and reduce costs, in November 2017, BOSR administered a clients survey to its past NASIS clients as well as those who had expressed interest in this survey before in an effort to identify those core items which were less important to researchers as potential candidate items to be trimmed from the core items pool. Based on the results of this web survey and internal reviews, core items were reduced in 2018. BOSR still offers researchers the option to add previous core items back into NASIS as needed as part of their purchased space.

The 2022 NASIS consisted of the core items retained after the review in 2018 and clients' questions covering several issues of interest. In 2022, the wording of the gender and sexual orientation questions were updated to reflect new research in the field. A copy of the final, formatted mail survey can be found in Appendix C.

Sampling Design

In order to meet the research needs of clients and increase the sample coverage, the sampling design of 2022 NASIS mail survey used a postal delivery sequence-based sample of household addresses (ABS). The sample included addresses for individuals and households who have an address according to the US Postal Service. Advantages to this type of sampling design include the ability to mail to all sampled addresses as well as a very high coverage (98% for the United States (O'Muircheartaigh, 2012)). To maintain a probability sample, the adult (age 19 or older) in the household with the next birthday after July 1, 2022 was asked to complete the survey.

The sampling design for NASIS has adapted to changes in the survey field over time. Traditionally, the NASIS sample was drawn from a population of non-institutionalized persons in households with telephones who resided in the State of Nebraska during the survey period. Persons under 19 years of age, persons in custodial institutions, in-group living quarters, on military bases or reservations, and transient visitors to the state were excluded from the sampling universe. Since its inception in 1977, NASIS used Random Digit Dialing (RDD) procedures to select survey respondents. In 2006, NASIS respondents were drawn from a directory-listed sample of telephone numbers - a change prompted by challenges in sampling related to the proliferation of cell-phone-only adults and increased costs of RDD on the scale of NASIS. In NASIS 2008-2009, the sample design consisted of three segments: (1) a traditional directory listed sample; (2) a sample of participants of the NASIS 2007 (i.e., panel); and (3) an oversample of four counties (Colfax, Dawson, Hall, and Scotts Bluff) in Nebraska with high proportions of Hispanic/Latino residents. In 2009-2010 and 2010-2011, the sampling design utilized was a directory listed address sample. An ABS sample has been used since NASIS 2011-2012.

The 2022 NASIS used a stratified sample, drawn throughout Nebraska with an unequal probability of selection within each of the eight strata. The strata include the six Nebraska Behavioral Health Regions, a sample of zip codes in Lincoln, and a sample of zip codes in Omaha. The counties and zip codes in each strata can be found in Appendix A.

Residents of sampled households were then asked to have the adult 19 or older in their household who will have the next birthday after July 1, 2022 to complete the survey. In total, 8,000 households were sampled.

The sample for 2022 NASIS was purchased from Dynata. A total of 8,000 cases were provided to BOSR by Dynata on July 1, 2022. Known vacant addresses were excluded from the sampling frame. PO Boxes were only included in the sampling frame if those were the only delivery point for an address.

Experimental Design Treatment

The 2022 NASIS included a single experiment. All sample members were randomly assigned to one of four conditions. The experiment was an incentive experiment in the second survey packet mailing. All sample members received a $1 incentive in the first mailing. Nonresponders received either no incentive (Condition 1), $1 (Condition 2), two $1 bills (Condition 3), or $5 (Condition 4) in the second mailing. This resulted in two versions of the second mailing cover letter, either mentioning a small token of appreciation or not. All other materials were the same across conditions. A variable indicating condition (Experiment_Condition) and mode of response (Mode) are included in the final dataset.

Data Collection Process

Data were collected between July 19, 2022 and November 16, 2022. The initial survey packet was sent to all sampled addresses on July 19, 2022. In the past a few administrations, BOSR has sent out a future research card along with all other materials in order to give households the chance to be contacted for future research opportunities. Beginning in 2018, this effort has been geared toward building a more robust panel for future research use. In addition to the panelist enrollment card, a separate FAQ sheet which provided detailed answers to the most common concerns respondents are likely to have regarding joining this panel was included in each survey packet. Those who agreed to become a member of the “NebrASKa Voices” panel for future studies were asked to return their completed card separately from the questionnaire using the small, postage-paid envelope BOSR provided to mail it back to BOSR.

In the 2022 administration, each survey packet contained a shortened cover letter with web survey link and FAQ regarding the survey (Appendix B), a paper survey (Appendix C), a panelist enrollment card with NebrASKa Voices FAQ sheet (Appendices D and E), one small postage-paid return envelope and one large postage-paid return envelope. The first survey packet also included a $1 incentive. The first survey packet was sent on July 19, 2022. The survey contained 151 questions in 16 pages when displayed on the paper questionnaire. A reminder postcard (Appendix B) was sent to all sample members about one week after the group’s initial mailing (July 26, 2022). In addition to the reminder postcard, a second survey packet (contents discussed above) was sent to all non-responders on August 9, 2022. A total of 1455 completed/partially completed surveys were received and processed by BOSR through November 16, 2022.

Response Rate

A total of 1455 (398 via web, 1057 via mail) adults completed the 2022 NASIS survey. The response rate of 19.7% was calculated using the American Association for Public Opinion Research's (AAPOR) standard definition for Response Rate 2. Of the 8,000 addresses sampled, 7.7% (n=616) were determined to be ineligible (e.g., no such address; vacant), 3.5% (n=281) were undeliverable addresses with unknown eligibility. Refusals (e.g., blank survey returned; letter, phone call, or e-mail stating refusal to participate) and refused mail were obtained from 1.6% (n=129) of the sample.

Data-Entry Training, Supervision, and Quality Control

Data entry was completed by professional data-entry staff. Many of the data-entry workers had previous experience in data entry using SurVADE, a program developed by BOSR project staff, on other mail survey projects. The data-entry staff was supervised by permanent BOSR project staff.

Data entry was completed in two steps. First, one data-entry worker would enter responses from a single survey. Second, another data-entry worker would re-key the survey and be alerted to any discrepancies with the first entry. Supervisory staff members were available to answer questions about discrepancies or illegible responses. The data-entry staff is paid by the hour, not by the number of surveys entered. This method of payment is used so that we can ensure the high quality of the data collected by our staff.

Processing of Completed Surveys

The data were collected from July 19, 2022 to November 16, 2022. Completed surveys were received from a total of 1455 respondents. As previously mentioned, paper surveys were data-entered using SurVADE with data saved on AWS, a cloud-based server. Each week, backups of the data were downloaded and stored on a networked file server.

For surveys completed via web, respondents entered their responses directly into a computerized instrument, and therefore required no additional data entry or data processing steps. The survey data were recorded in Qualtrics and stored on a networked file server after being exported.

Data Cleaning

The data are recorded and stored on a secure server located within the Sociology Department at UNL. The Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS) software package was used to process and document the dataset. The first step in data cleaning was to run frequency distributions on each of the variables in the survey. Next, cases were de-duplicated across modes and the more complete response was taken. If both web and mail responses matched in amount complete, then the response that was received first was kept. No other validity checks were done. The next step was to generate variable and value labels (attempts were made to match the variable names and values for core items that appeared in previous NASIS administration periods). The final step in data cleaning was to recode all open-ended "other" responses on core variables and check for out-of-range values on all survey items. Recoding was done to correct for the most obvious errors/inconsistencies in the data. Some open-ended information, such as the county codes, were assigned numeric codes by the BOSR staff and also merged with the remainder of the data. The county codes are listed in Appendix F.

Since the data collected contains information specific to the topic, additional decisions related to cleaning and recoding of the data will be left to the client to ensure final data quality. It should be noted, too, that due to the nature of mail surveys, respondents do not always follow the instructions for skip patterns within the survey. Inconsistencies, which are common in mail surveys, will still exist in the data.

The cleaned, coded data were stored in an SPSS system file. A list of all variables in the archive file and the variable names used in the SPSS system file for each variable are included in Appendix G. Datasets for users involving subsets of items in the file were generated by selecting the appropriate items from this main file.

The most economical and flexible manner to use the NASIS data is by using the SPSS for Windows software program. It is also possible to produce a dataset for SAS, among other possible data formats. Any additional needs or questions concerning the NASIS dataset should be directed to the Bureau of Sociological Research.

NASIS Sample Weights

The data were weighted in four ways to account for the stratified sample design, within household probability of selection, nonresponse, and population characteristics. First, data were weighted by stratum in order to account for the disproportionate stratified sample design (basewat). Then, the data were weighted by the number of adults living in the household (Hwat) in order to adjust for within-household selection probability. Then the data were weighted for nonresponse (NRwt) by Behavioral Health Region (reg). Please refer to Figure 1 for a description of the regions. Third, poststratification weights were applied based on region (reg), age (age_grp2), and sex (sex) in order for the data to more closely resemble the population (post_cat). Hotdeck imputation was used to provide complete data on age and sex for weighting. Although NASIS offers a third sex option, due to the lack of population for this category, these are changed to missing and hotdeck imputation is used to recode sex into a binary variable (sex). Table 1 shows the poststratification groups and the population counts from the 2018 American Community Survey (ACS) for each group. The ACS age category for early adults includes 18 year olds. However, the age of majority in Nebraska is 19 years old meaning that the given ACS age categories do not perfectly provide the necessary data. As a result, the number of 19 year olds was calculated as 1% of the overall Nebraska population.

Tables 2 and 3 display ACS frequencies and its comparison to NASIS weighted and unweighted frequencies. Sampling (sampwat), nonresponse (NRwt), and poststratification (post_cat) weights were multiplied together and rescaled (Rescale) to create the final weight. The variables used in weighting are included in the dataset. The final weight in the dataset is called Pwate.

Females	51.1%	56.6%	50.7%
Total	100%	100%	100%

*Weighted estimates are calculated using imputed variables. The frequencies above are of the variables before imputation. As a result, the weighted frequencies do not exactly match the 2018 ACS estimates.

Design Effects

The design effect due to weighting adjustments is 1.92, which represents the loss in statistical efficiency that results from unequal weights¹.

Disproportionate stratification was used for the 2022 NASIS, as discussed earlier. The use of this type of sampling resulted in a sampling design effect of 0.57².

Appropriate adjustments need to be incorporated into statistical tests when using 2022 NASIS data. See Appendix H for more information.

Limitations

All surveys contain errors that cannot be directly measured. These errors may arise when response rates are less than 100%, when weights do not fully account for potential differences in the representation of the respondents to the target population, or when respondents do not understand or cannot answer all of the questions that are asked in the survey.

This survey was only offered in English and excludes those who do not understand English.

Due to the nature of ABS surveys, only people with a household address could be sampled. Households that only receive mail by PO boxes are still included. Address-based samples excludes the homeless and those living in group homes or institutions.

Web-only surveys exclude those who do not have a computer or other internet-enabled device, easy internet access, or may not know how to use a computer. This study provided a paper survey. By providing a paper survey, lack of internet access was not a limitation of this study.

Questions

Any questions regarding this report or the data collected can be directed to the Bureau of Sociological Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln by calling (402) 472-3672 or by sending an e-mail to bosr@unl.edu.

¹ The formula used is: $1 + cv^2(w) = \frac{n(\sum_1^n w_i^2)}{(\sum_1^n w_i)^2}$

² The formula used is: $deff = \frac{\text{var}_{complex}(\bar{y})}{\text{var}_{SRS}(\bar{y})}$. Used Q2 (All in all, do you think things in Nebraska are generally headed in the right direction or the wrong direction?) to calculate.

Dear «City» Resident,

I am writing to ask for your household's help with a survey called the Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey, also called the NASIS. The questions on this survey come from multiple researchers and cover a variety of topics. The researchers have pooled their limited resources to be able to do this survey. NASIS results are used by these and other researchers, non-profits, and state agencies. They are also used for student training and for student research papers.

This effort can only be successful with your help. We need the adult (age 19 or over) from your household who has the next birthday after July 1, 2022 to do the survey.

We have made the survey available online because it allows us to collect the information more quickly and to be more responsible with our research money. However, because some people don't use the internet and it is important that we hear from all households, we've also enclosed a paper copy and a postage-paid return envelope. To access this survey online, please go to the link listed below and enter your unique identification number.

Survey Link: <https://go.unl.edu/nasis2022a>
Unique Identification Number: [ID]

If you do not want to do the survey online, please complete and return the enclosed paper questionnaire.

More information about the survey can be found on the back of this letter. We have enclosed a small token of appreciation to thank you for helping with the survey.

Sincerely,

Lindsey Witt-Swanson

Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey (NASIS) Information

Why did this survey come to my house? We sent the survey to a small number of randomly chosen Nebraska addresses. Answers from these households will represent the entire state.

Who should do the survey? The adult age 19 or older in your household who has the next birthday after July 1, 2022. This helps the survey represent all Nebraskans.

What should this person do? Answer the questions either online using the provided link and unique identification number or by paper and return the survey in the return envelope. The survey takes around 20-25 minutes.

Who is asking these questions? Researchers at the Rural Drug Addiction Research Center, Nebraska Public Media, Nebraska Department of Transportation, and the University of Nebraska have pooled their resources to do this survey. This uses limited resources more responsibly and reduces the number of surveys people are asked to do.

Has this study been approved by the University? Yes. The UNL Institutional Review Board approved the survey. (IRB# 20160816236FB).

Is this voluntary? Yes.

Will my answers be kept confidential? Yes. Your answers will be combined with other people's answers in all reports, papers, presentations, and other analyses so nobody can tell who gave which answers. No identifying information will be reported. Thus, there are no known risks to participating.

Who uses this information? The primary users are the researchers who came together to do the survey. We will also share the survey data and analyses with other researchers, state government employees, non-profit organizations, or media. Instructors use the data to teach students, and students use it for research.

Who do I contact if I have questions about the survey? The Bureau of Sociological Research (1-800-480-4549 or email bosr@unl.edu).

Who do I contact if I have questions about my rights as a research participant? The UNL Institutional Review Board at 402-472-6965.

What is the future research card? This card gives you the chance to be contacted for future research opportunities. You can complete this survey whether or not you decide to return the future research card.

Dear «City» Resident,

A few weeks ago we asked your household to complete the 2022 Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey (NASIS). We have not yet received your household's completed survey.

The NASIS has been conducted since 1977. Results have been presented at scientific meetings, published in books and articles, and covered in the news. We hope to continue this tradition. The questions asked on this year's survey will contribute to research, education, and state government decisions. We need the adult (age 19 or over) from your household who has the next birthday after July 1, 2022 to do the survey.

We have made the survey available online because it allows us to collect the information more quickly and to be more responsible with our research money. However, because some people don't use the internet and it is important that we hear from all households, we've also enclosed a paper copy and a postage-paid return envelope. To complete this survey online, please go to the link listed below and enter your unique identification number.

Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey (NASIS) Information

Why did this survey come to my house? We sent the survey to a small number of randomly chosen Nebraska addresses. Answers from these households will represent the entire state.

Who should do the survey? The adult age 19 or older in your household who has the next birthday after July 1, 2022. This helps the survey represent all Nebraskans.

What should this person do? Answer the questions either online using the provided link and unique identification number or by paper and return the survey in the return envelope. The survey takes around 20-25 minutes.

Who is asking these questions? Researchers at the Rural Drug Addiction Research Center, Nebraska Public Media, Nebraska Department of Transportation, and the University of Nebraska have pooled their resources to do this survey. This uses limited resources more responsibly and reduces the number of surveys people are asked to do.

Has this study been approved by the University? Yes. The UNL Institutional Review Board approved the survey. (IRB# 20160816236FB).

Is this voluntary? Yes.

Will my answers be kept confidential? Yes. Your answers will be combined with other people's answers in all reports, papers, presentations, and other analyses so nobody can tell who gave which answers. No identifying information will be reported. Thus, there are no known risks to participating.

Who uses this information? The primary users are the researchers who came together to do the survey. We will also share the survey data and analyses with other researchers, state government employees, non-profit organizations, or media. Instructors use the data to teach students, and students use it for research.

Who do I contact if I have questions about the survey? The Bureau of Sociological Research (1-800-480-4549 or email bosr@unl.edu).

Who do I contact if I have questions about my rights as a research participant? The UNL Institutional Review Board at 402-472-6965.

What is the future research card? This card gives you the chance to be contacted for future research opportunities. You can complete this survey whether or not you decide to return the future research card.

Dear «City» Resident,

A few weeks ago we asked your household to complete the 2022 Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey (NASIS). We have not yet received your household's completed survey.

The NASIS has been conducted since 1977. Results have been presented at scientific meetings, published in books and articles, and covered in the news. We hope to continue this tradition. The questions asked on this year's survey will contribute to research, education, and state government decisions. We need the adult (age 19 or over) from your household who has the next birthday after July 1, 2022 to do the survey.

We have made the survey available online because it allows us to collect the information more quickly and to be more responsible with our research money. However, because some people don't use the internet and it is important that we hear from all households, we've also enclosed a paper copy and a postage-paid return envelope. To complete this survey online, please go to the link listed below and enter your unique identification number.

Survey Link: <https://go.unl.edu/nasis2022c>
Unique Identification Number: [ID]

If you do not want to do the survey online, please complete and return the enclosed paper questionnaire.

More information about the survey can be found on the back of this letter. We have enclosed a small token of appreciation to thank you for helping with the survey.

Sincerely,

Lindsey Witt-Swanson

NASIS 2022
Questions? 1-800-480-4549 or bosr@unl.edu

In a traditional approach, a judge decides and assigns punishment. In contrast, a restorative justice (RJ) approach emphasizes amends, not punishment. In RJ, the offending youth meets with those impacted by the youth's actions to discuss the effects of the youth's offense. With help from a facilitator, they develop a plan for the youth to take responsibility and repair the harm to those affected.

In your opinion, when it comes to youth offenses, how does the restorative justice approach seem to compare to the traditional approach?

- The restorative justice approach seems much better.
- The restorative justice approach seems somewhat better.
- The restorative justice approach and the traditional approach seem about the same.
- The traditional approach seems somewhat better.
- The traditional approach seems much better.

Appendix E: NebrASKa Voices FAQ

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

Q: Who can become a NebrASKa Voices Panel member?

Every year, the Bureau of Sociological Research (BOSR) at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln sends out the Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey (NASIS). This survey is sent to a representative sample of Nebraskans to learn about their opinion on a variety of topics and issues. The data collected help shape program and policy development in Nebraska. To ensure a random sample of Nebraskans, the adult aged 19 or older who has the next birthday after a designated date of the contacted household is invited to join the NebrASKa Voices Panel. BOSR does not currently accept spontaneous opt-in to the panel from individuals who are not contacted to take part in NASIS. This allows the panel to remain a random sample of Nebraskans.

Q: Why are my answers important to you?

Your answers are extremely important in helping University researchers and Nebraska policy makers make sound and informed decisions in key areas to improve the well-being of our people and communities. The impact of your participation can never be underestimated and we always would like to hear from you.

Q: How do I join your panel?

Simply return your completed card separately from your survey using the small, postage-paid envelope we have provided or by mailing it to:

Bureau of Sociological Research
P.O. Box 880325
Lincoln, NE 68588-0325

Q: What are the benefits of joining and what should I expect as a member?

Panelists benefit by allowing their voices to be heard in research. BOSR will also keep panelists informed on results and outcomes of research in which the panel participated. Panelists are able to stay connected with the research taking place at the University of Nebraska through participation and communication.

After agreeing to join, panelists will receive a welcome letter to confirm their membership and a small token of our appreciation for joining the panel. BOSR will then connect with you at least twice a year to update contact information as needed and to keep you updated on the research that the panel has helped with.

You will be invited to participate in research projects as you are eligible. You can then choose whether or not you want to participate in any particular study. The panel is new, so we are not sure yet what the need will be for panel members to participate in research projects. As a result, we will start by allowing panelists to be eligible for up to five research opportunities a year. If demand is higher than what that cap will allow, we will reach out to you with any changes to this policy. We realize that your time is important, and will be respectful of that.

Q: If I join your panel, how often will I receive an invitation to participate in a survey?

BOSR will contact panel members who are eligible for certain studies. We will notify panel members by your preferred mode of communication whenever we can. Each panelist can be notified of up to five research opportunities a year. You can then choose whether or not you want to participate in any particular study.

Q: In what kinds of studies might I be asked to participate?

Panelists may be asked to participate in studies from a variety of areas. In the past, panelists have been asked to participate in focus groups, complete surveys, and take part in research at the University's Center for Brain, Biology and Behavior (CB3).

BOSR only works with legitimate academic researchers, state and local government, and trustworthy local organizations. We will never try to sell you anything. In addition, BOSR will always strive to provide our panelists an appropriate user experience and will not field projects that in our professional opinion will result in a poor user experience for our panelists. Again, you always have the right to choose which studies you want or do not want to participate in.

Q: How long will these projects take me?

Each project is different. Some projects may take ten to fifteen minutes to complete. Others may include a one-hour focus group, or require an hour at the Center for Brain, Biology and Behavior on campus. You will be told how long participation will take with each project we pass along to you. You can then use this information to determine whether or not you want to participate in each study.

Q: How will you protect my privacy and ensure confidentiality of my answers?

BOSR will never share your contact information with anyone outside of BOSR unless you have explicitly agreed to participate in an additional study where the researcher needs to communicate with you directly. Otherwise, BOSR will keep your contact information safely on our secure server.

BOSR will take all possible steps to protect your privacy. Your answers to any projects you participate in will be held in strict confidentiality and will be used only for research purposes. The results will be reported in aggregate form or as summary only, and will never be presented in a way that you can be identified individually.

Q: What if I do not want to answer your surveys or want to opt out of the panel in future?

Although your feedback is strongly encouraged and appreciated, participation in any of our future surveys is completely voluntary. If you change your mind, you may withdraw from the panel any time by simply informing us and we will remove you from the list. You can simply give us a call at 402-472-3672 or 1-800-480-4549 or email bosr@unl.edu. Our contact information can also be found on our website, bosr.unl.edu.

Q: What is BOSR and what does it do?

BOSR is a university-affiliated, nonprofit academic survey organization directed by Dr. Kristen Olson (kolson5@unl.edu) and Lindsey Witt-Swanson, Associate Director (lwitt2@unl.edu) at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. It was established in 1964 and has been helping researchers with their studies ever since.

As a university-affiliated, nonprofit academic survey organization, the Bureau of Sociological Research (BOSR) provides a range of research services for faculty, staff, administrators and students. BOSR actively works with UNL investigators on the design, implementation and completion of research projects. BOSR also provides research services for state, government and local organizations outside of the University. Information collected by BOSR is helpful for program evaluation, budgeting justifications, and planning purposes.

Our central administrative goal has always been to provide high quality research services to advance knowledge and to help improve social conditions. BOSR supports all aspects of social science research applications and strives to offer quality research services while adapting to new technologies.

Appendix H: Estimate of Sampling Error

The 2022 NASIS sample is a stratified random sample of households in the state. Because the data were weighted to account for within household selection and population characteristics, the estimates of the sampling error are not straightforward. Table 4 presents margins of sampling error for some of the most likely sample sizes not taking the design effect from sampling and weighting into account. Exact margins of error for alternative specifications of sample size and reported percentages can be easily computed by using the following formula for the 95% confidence level:

$$\text{Margin of error} = 1.96 * \text{square root } (p(1-p)/n)$$

p = the expected proportion selecting the answer
n = number of responses

Table 4. Approximate Margins of Error of Percentages by Selected Sample Size NOT Accounting for Design Effect (Expressed In Percentages)*

Reported Percentage	Full Sample* n=1455	75% Sample n=1091	50% Sample n=727	33.3% Sample n=485	25% Sample n=363	10% Sample n=145
50	2.57%	2.97%	3.63%	4.45%	5.14%	8.14%
40 or 60	2.52%	2.91%	3.56%	4.36%	5.04%	7.97%
30 or 70	2.35%	2.72%	3.33%	4.08%	4.71%	7.46%
20 or 80	2.06%	2.37%	2.91%	3.56%	4.11%	6.51%
10 or 90	1.54%	1.78%	2.18%	2.67%	3.09%	4.88%
5 or 95	1.12%	1.29%	1.58%	1.94%	2.24%	3.55%

* 95% confidence interval states that in 95 out of 100 samples drawn using the same sample size and design, the interval will contain the population value

When accounting a design effect, the adjusted sampling error will be increased as is shown when comparing Table 4 to Table 5 where the sampling design effect is incorporated:

$$\text{Margin of error} = \text{square root } (\text{deff}) * 1.96 * \text{square root } (p(1-p)/n)$$

deff = design effects
p = the expected proportion selecting the answer
n = number of responses

30 or 70	1.78%	2.05%	2.52%	3.08%	3.56%	5.63%
20 or 80	1.55%	1.79%	2.20%	2.69%	3.11%	4.92%
10 or 90	1.16%	1.34%	1.65%	2.02%	2.33%	3.69%
5 or 95	0.85%	0.98%	1.20%	1.46%	1.69%	2.68%

* 95% confidence interval states that in 95 out of 100 samples drawn using the same sample size and design, the interval will contain the population value

The same is true when accounting for the design effect due to weighting, as is shown when comparing Table 4 to Table 6.

Appendix I: AAPOR Transparency Initiative Immediate Disclosure Items

1. Describe the data collection strategies employed (e.g., surveys, focus groups, content analyses).

Data Collection Process

2. Name the sponsor of the research and the party(ies) who conducted it. If the original source of funding is different than the sponsor, this source will also be disclosed.

Introduction

3. The exact wording and presentation of any measurement tool from which results are reported as well as any preceding contextual information that might reasonably be expected to influence responses to the reported results and instructions to respondents or interviewers should be included.

Appendices B and C

4. A definition of the population under study, including location, age, other social or demographic characteristics (e.g., persons who access the internet), time (e.g., immigrants entering the US between 2015 and 2019).

Sampling Design

5. Dates of data collection.

Data Collection Process

6. Explicitly state whether the sample comes from a frame selected using a probability-based methodology (meaning selecting potential participants with a known non-zero probability from a known frame) or if the sample was selected using non-probability methods (potential participants from opt-in, volunteer, or other sources).

Sampling Design

7. Probability-based sample specification should include a description of the sampling frame(s), list(s), or method(s). If a frame, list, or panel is used, the description should include the name of the supplier of the sample or list and nature of the list (e.g., registered voters in the state of Texas in 2018, pre-recruited panel or pool). If a frame, list, or panel is used, the description should include the coverage of the population, including describing any segment of the target population that is not covered by the design.

Sampling Design

8. Provide a clear indication of the method(s) by which participants were contacted, selected, recruited, intercepted, or otherwise contacted or encountered, along with any eligibility requirements and/or oversampling. Describe any use of quotas.

Sampling Design and Data Collection Process

9. Provide details of any strategies used to help gain cooperation (e.g., advance contact, letters and scripts, compensation or incentives, refusal conversion contacts) whether for participation in a survey, group, panel, or for participation in a particular research project. Describe any compensation/incentives provided to research subjects and the method of delivery (debit card, gift card, cash).

Data Collection Process

10. A description of all mode(s) used to contact participants or collect data or information (e.g., CATI, CAPI, ACASI, IVR, mail survey, web survey) and the language(s) offered or included.

Data Collection Process

11. Sample sizes (by sampling frame if more than one was used) and (if applicable) a discussion of the precision of the results. Provide sample sizes for each mode of data collection (for surveys include sample sizes for each frame, list, or panel used). For probability samples, report estimates of sampling error (often described as “the margin of error”) and discuss whether or not the reported sampling error or statistical analyses have been adjusted for the design effect due to weighting, clustering, or other factors. Reports of non-probability sample surveys will only provide measures of precision if they are defined and accompanied by a detailed description of how the underlying model was specified, its assumptions validated and the measure(s) calculated.

Sampling Design, Design Effects, and Appendix H

12. A description of how the weights were calculated, including the variables used and the sources of weighting parameters, if weighted estimates are reported.

NASIS Sample Weights

13. Describe validity checks, where applicable, including but not limited to whether the researcher added attention checks, logic checks, or excluded respondents who straight-lined or completed the survey under a certain time constraint, any screening of content for evidence that it originated from bots or fabricated profiles, re-contacts to confirm that the interview occurred or to verify respondent’s identity or both, and measures to prevent respondents from completing the survey more than once. Any data imputation or other data exclusions or replacement will also be discussed.

Data Cleaning

14. Contact for obtaining more information about the study.

Questions

15. A general statement acknowledging the limitations of the design and data collection.
